

Who's Who in Maycomb County?

Maycomb County is a small town in Alabama. Like all towns, large and small, the population is diverse. There are people in the town who contribute to the town in a positive way, and those who contribute in a negative way. It is from all of these people combined that the Finch children learn the most about life.

Instructions:

1. With a partner, you will be responsible for recording information on two characters that have been introduced in the novel thus far. For each of your assigned characters, you must answer the following questions:
